

Hop Bunny Hop!

I firmly believe that everybody should have something to love even if you can't see it. Mine, however is a huge stuffed bunny I got for Christmas one year from my great-grandma. I thought it was very nice of her to buy me that and now I love it so much because it is one of the few things I have left to remember her by. February is the month that always reminds me of her that is usually when I keep the bunny close to my heart. I have something to love and I think everybody else should too even if they are homeless they still have family to keep close to them.

Now I would like to tell you more about my treasure and that of course is my bunny. I got this bunny when I was about 6 or 7 years old and I got it on Christmas morning when I was visiting my great-grandma in the nursing home in Menomonie. I did get a lot more stuff that day, but now basically all I have left from that day is that bunny.

My great-grandma passed away in February of 2008 so that is why I always keep the bunny really close during the month of February and my family and I always watch this video of her that the church made. Whenever I watch this video it always makes me cry because I love and miss her so much. Since she died of cancer I have always wanted to raise a little money in her name to help find a cure for cancer. I would also like to raise money for her husband, my great-grandpa that died from cancer too in the year 1985 so I never actually got to meet him, but it's still as if they are both watching over me and thinking about how wonderful I am to want to raise money for them.

When I had heard that he had died before I had got to meet him I was so upset because I have never met him and I had also never met my other great-grandpa either. I have so much family that has died and the very few things I have that remind me of them are my treasures.

My great-grandma that died from cancer was the only one out of my two great-grandmas that ever bought me stuff for Christmas or gave me money for the Ridgeland Fair. My other great-grandma however has never gave me anything or maybe it just seems like it if I compare her with my other great-grandma!

I love them all because they have given me treasures that I will keep for that rest of my life or maybe even pass it on to my kids when I grow up and have them give it to their kids and so on. I would love to pass it on to show everybody what a great person my great-grandma was to me and my family!
