

Discover the Hidden Treasures

Life has many treasures. Some you are greatly happy with and others you are very disappointed with. Even though the sad treasures can pause your happiness for a while, life still goes on. While some spend their days looking and hunting for their treasures, others leave them hidden for the right moment. Those hidden treasures can be all sorts of things, such as a baby being born or a stray cat coming to your door and you end up falling in love with it. They can also be a horrific car accident, caused by a drunk driver, killing a family. The drunk driver then receives his treasure, living with the guilt, but also teaching others that actions have consequences.

Many people take the good treasures for granted and feel sorry for themselves once the bad treasures come. It is very rare that someone takes advantage of their good treasures to make the bad ones move on quickly. People can also take their treasures in different ways, like again with the drunk driver and dead family, either the loved ones could choose to be very angry with the driver or they could choose the power of forgiveness. The driver could choose to rot in his cell or he could choose to forgive himself and teach others about forgiveness and the will to do what is right. With the newborn baby, the parents could choose to keep the baby and raise it and have many treasures with the life of the child, or they can choose to give the baby up for adoption and give somebody else the joys and sometimes sadness of their treasure.

People can also choose to spread the good treasures to make other people have good treasures, although some people choose to be selfish and keep the happiness and joy to themselves. Some people spread the bad treasures around and make others feel bad, sad, and even angry. The person whom it is being spread to, the good, the bad, and the ugly, also have the choice to spread the good and to move on with the bad, or spread the bad and take the good for granted. When people discover their treasures in life, they have so many choices on what to do and how to react with their treasures.
